

SYZYGY

MICHAEL G CONEY

This is no one-string novel; the psychology, economics and characterisation are as well done as the biology. — George Hay, Vice President, Science Fiction Foundation

Few of the inhabitants of Arcadia can remember exactly what happened the last time the six moons came together in a havoc-creating constellation. And those old enough to remember are curiously reticent ...

STARDANCE

SPIDER and JEANNE ROBINSON

There was no way on Earth Shara Drummond could become a professional dancer. So she created a new dimension in dance — in the zero gravity environment of the orbiting Skyfac. And when the aliens appeared, Shara saw the only way to communicate with them — and the price she must pay.

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER WAS

LLOYD BIGGLE JR

Disorder is rife on the outer planets of the galaxy, where animaloids — non-human life forms — are demanding rejection of the arbitrary classification of themselves as inferior to humans. Then a leading art critic receives a brilliant painting and discovers that it may be the work of a non-human intelligence ...

FLIGHTS OF FANTASY

Cartoon Special

After high technology, micro-chips and computer-driven alien spacecraft, Heath Robinson's contraptions with their ancient wooden cogwheels, intricate pulley systems, fragile gantries and yards of knotted string are quite stunning. His inventions and absurdities are guaranteed to amaze and amuse — for example whoever heard of Portable Pedestrian Crossings, and what might the future hold for a game like Fish Tennis? You can buy the books individually saving £2 on each, or together at a saving of £7.05.

FUTURELOVE A Science Fiction Triad

ANNE McCAFFREY · JOAN HUNTER · HOLLY JEFFREY · A CARVER
Edited with an introduction by GORDON R DICKSON

A sensitive portrayal of three different aspects of love. What are the implications when a sister acts as surrogate mother to her brother's child? When a clone is the opposite of his parent cell? When a couple adopt a dog-like B-mot from Betelgeuse who proves near disastrous to their relationship? 181pp
