THE LIGHT THAT NEVER WAS

LLOYD BIGGLE JR.

*A quivering puddle of slime ... assumed a shape, became a bloated oval of pulsating, mud-encrusted jelly, and flowed towards the palette ...
And then it began to paint ...* Chaos breaks loose on the outer planets of the galaxy when it is discovered that animaloid minds might actually be superior to humans ... 8½ x 5½in /

STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND

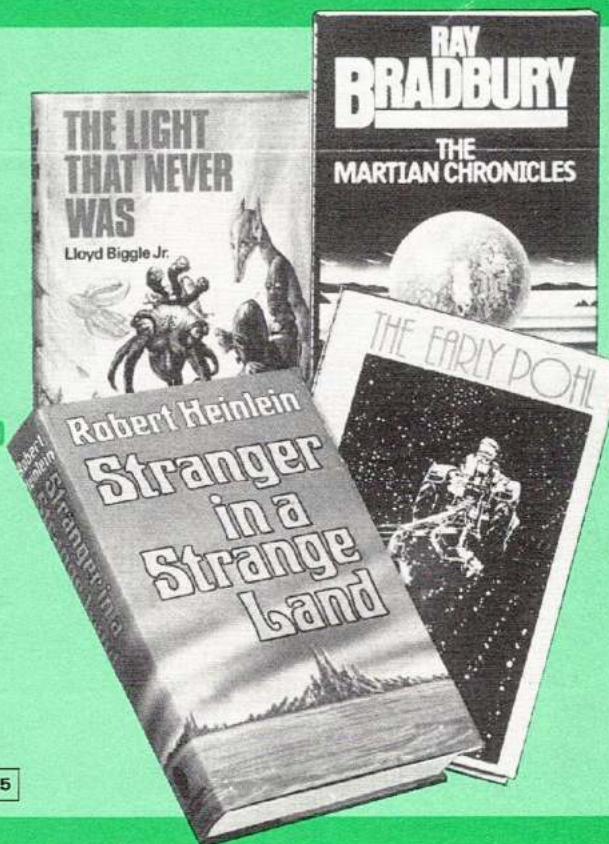

ROBERT HEINLEIN

Heinlein's sensational masterpiece caused an uproar in the 60s - and its impact remains just as powerful today. It tells the unforgettable story of the humanisation of the Martian, Valentine Michael Smith ... a story that undermines and attacks the structure of modern society, questions the idea of sexual relations based on jealousy, and pokes a bitter satirical finger at materialists and politicians.

THE MARTIAN CHRONICLES

RAY BRADBURY

One of the great sf classics of all time.

'The Martian Chronicles is an amazing work; its closely interwoven short stories, linked by recurrent images and themes, tell of the repeated attempts by humans to colonise Mars, of the way they bring their old prejudices with them, and of their repeated, ambiguous meetings with the shape-changing Martians' - The

HEATH ROBINSON

'Your absurd, beautiful drawings ... give me a peculiar pleasure of the mind like nothing else in the world' H.G.
Wells to Heath Robinson in 1914 Everyone with imagination and a keen sense of the absurd will revel in the fantastical world of Heath Robinson, that inspired artist and inventor who gave his name to his own distinctive contraptions. Devices for trapping the clothes moths in the wilds of Idaho, removing a wart from the top of the head, eating peas, decoying giraffes, and testing dentures ... all these and many more appear in these two superb collections of ingenious cartoonwork, with Inventions concentrating on the infamous gadgets, and Absurdities looking at both gadgets and bizarre pastimes.
