NEWS BULLETIN

Fanzines are informal amateur publications produced by active sf fans. Several hundred different titles are currently available around the world, many of them no more than a few duplicated sheets circulated to friends, other making full use of professional techniques. Some of the best of them — and those most accessible to new readers — feature material by well-known authors and critics, and provide interesting insights into the sf world, as well as providing a forum — in lively letter columns — for discussion and debate.

A small selection of such titles, plus a couple of regular newsletters, are listed below. If you're interested in finding out more about them, write directly to the addresses given at the end of each entry, enclosing return postage.
